Everyone has intuition and everyone receives guidance from the other side. It could be as simple as we are here. You are not alone! Sometimes it may be a message to change where you are going. It could be to run into someone you are suppose to meet or simply to get off the road where you might be in an accident.

My daughter and another reader was helping a friend at an event. Coming home n 95 S before exit 18, a Buck came out in the road. Both girls stopped and went to get a picture of the Buck and he ran off. They got back on the road and there had been a multi car crash minutes before. Someone was watching over them!

A group of us went up to Laconia and one of our friends had lost their son. He was coming through to them as a blue Dragonfly. I kept seeing Michael's face on bikers and told my husband to be careful. Michael was warning us about something.

We pulled into Dunkin and a blue Dragonfly landed on the dash. 10 bikers gabbing and looking at the Dragonfly talked for quite a while. It flew away and everyone got on their bikes heading towards Laconia. Again, there was a huge accident with trucks on their sides as well as bikes. I no longer believe in coincidences

When you get one of those gut feelings, listen to them. You may land in the right spot at the right time or avoid a dangerous situations. As you become more aware, listening will bcome easier.

Many years ago, I heard to get out of a lane and go up another way. I saw the car in my old spot get hit. I felt guilty and a couple of wonderful people told me that I listened and the person that was hit didn't.

You are not alone in this journey. We have so many loved ones, Angels and Spirit Guides helping us through this crazy life. Just pay attention!

LOVE & LIGHT,

Patti
